PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

Through the Executive MBA program in Business Continuity Management you develop a comprehensive understanding of business disruptions, emergencies, or threats facing an organization. You gain the necessary competence to react in emergency situations, and to manage them successfully so that the operations and business continuity of the organization are not distorted. The courses within this program prepare you in areas of disaster recovery, business response, risk analysis, and information management.

Apart from the theoretical aspect, the program also provides a practical explanation and understanding of business continuity management. Interconnection of theoretical and practical knowledge in 'Specialization' and 'Elective' courses makes graduates capable to apply their expertise when treating serious situations in an organization. On the other hand, 'Business Management' and 'Strategic Alignment' courses are carefully developed and designed to offer a dynamic approach and practical insights on how to lead teams and organizations, blending eLearning study methods, group discussions, solving case studies and simulations from Harvard Business Publishing Education, and capitalizing this knowledge in the Capstone Project.

PROGRAM LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Gain extensive understanding of various business continuity aspects, and of reaction practices for treatment of serious situations.
- Possess the skills to estimate exposure to vulnerability, develop response actions and prospective reaction plans, business continuity plans, and disaster recovery frameworks.
- Learn how to propose plans and implement strategies for response to and recovery from emergency situations.
- Acquire the necessary skills to prevent potential risks that might emerge from serious situations, and be able to assign resources and appropriate response strategies for mitigating the effects of those situations.
- Develop fundamental understanding of emergency management processes and procedures.
